IMPORTANT NOTE

Not all archives are in copyright (in which case the terms set out above will not apply) but this declaration must be signed as a precautionary measure.

Both original records and printed books are protected by copyright. In accordance with the terms of Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, the Copyright and Related Rights Regulations 2003, and the Copyright and Rights in Performances (Research, Education, Libraries and Archives) Regulations 2014, the Cumbria Archive Service can only supply one copy of an item in copyright and a 'reasonable amount' (normally up to 5%) of a published work in copyright for 'fair dealing' purposes and only for private and non-commercial research.

If you publish records, you should acknowledge the Archive Centre and quote the reference of the document. The correct titles of the Archive Centres are: Cumbria Archive and Local Studies Centre (Barrow), Cumbria Archive Centre (Carlisle), Cumbria Archive Centre (Kendal), Cumbria Archive and Local Studies Centre (Whitehaven).

There are a range of charges for publication and exhibition of documents depending on whether it is for local history or commercial use: please enquire for further details.
