After arrest and trial he was sent to Carlisle and forcibly enlisted in the 3rd Battalion of the Border Regiment. He refused to obey orders, was Court Martialled at Litherland on the 24th April 1917 and sentenced to one year with hard labour. He continued to disobey orders and between April 1917 and April 1918 was Court Martialled on two more occasions. He served his sentences in Wormwood Scrubs and Walton prison, Liverpool. He refused to accept any of the government schemes for COs and was among the 1500 men known as 'Absolutists'. Having become ill while in Walton prison, he was released in January 1919. The illness had rendered him stone deaf.
